Supportive Living, Independent Living & Young Parents Program

Our Beginnings...

King Edwards Programs were established in response to the need to assist youth and young adults who were struggling to achieve independence and transitioning out of the child welfare system. Many were experiencing difficulties in the community and found themselves homeless or without supportive adult resources. For youth who had family and friends the transition was not as challenging; however, emergency shelters and homeless resources were typical for many.

The Agency's first response to these youth's needs was to develop Emergency Respite Care Services. These services were provided from 1995 through 1997. More than 50 youth ages 17 to 21 were stabilized and transitioned back to families or to independent living settings.

In February 2003, King Edwards, Inc. (KEI) was licensed as a Child Placement Agency serving youth ages 17.5 to 21 and developed Supportive and Independent Living services for this population.

In 2010, KEI proposed that our current service population be expanded to include programming to young parents who have one child and wanted to be considered for Independent Living Placement.

In July of 2011, King Edwards, Inc. "A Journey Home": Independent Living Services for Young Parents was approved and is currently in a contractual relationship with DHR to serve ten (10) youth who are preparing for independent living and successfully exiting the foster care system with their child.

Our Mission:

"To assist youth and young adults to become self-sufficient, self-reliant, and to sustain themselves in the community and live a quality life."
